WELCOME TO THE BIGGEST WORKPLACE IN THE WORLD

With such diverse functions, the Naval Service is split into arms and branches, with over 100 roles available.

Whatever your background, interests or walk of life, there could be a role for you.

A life in the Naval Service is a rewarding one filled with adventure, possibilities and job security.

START YOUR JOURNEY

A future in the Naval Service can be whatever you want it to be and with over 100 different roles available, there is something for everyone in the Naval Service.

No matter where you are in the world, every day is different. That means we need people who are different. People like you, who have the drive to develop the wide-ranging skills that keep the Naval Service operationally effective on land, on the sea, underneath it, or flying over it.

The Naval Service is made up of five fighting arms. Think of them as where you'll physically perform the specialist role you choose, whether you join as a rating or an officer. Services (like the Surface Fleet or Submarine Service) work in tandem with the branches to provide them with the crew they need to get the job done.

ROYAL NAVY SURFACE FLEET

With a truly global impact, the Surface Fleet protects our nation's interests, all over the world.

As a member of the Surface Fleet you'll be part of the maritime might and backbone of the Royal Navy.

You could be safeguarding our economy and nurturing international partnerships, the Surface Fleet's missions are as varied as the oceans it covers.

Depending on your role you'll work on the formidable fighting machines that operate all over the world: aircraft carriers, assault ships, destroyers or frigates.

ROYAL NAVY SUBMARINE SERVICE

Join the world-renowned silent service and you'll be at the forefront of our nation's defence.

You'll be part of highly classified, stealth operations around the world, ready at a moment's notice to carry out global missions.

Our submarines remain hidden but see and hear everything, from tracking aircraft, ships and submarines to maintaining Trident, our nuclear deterrent.

It takes a special type of person to be a Submariner. It's a unique role with challenges and rewards you won't find anywhere else.

ROYAL NAVY FLEET AIR ARM

The Fleet Air Arm provides state-of-the-art technology the Aviation branch needs to deliver airborne support and extend our global reach.

Joining the Fleet Air Arm puts you at the forefront of military aviation. You'll provide vital support in peacetime and during combat operations, fly state-of-the-art helicopters, fast jets and use sophisticated weapon systems.

From combat missions and humanitarian aid, to being Naval Command's 'eyes in the sky', the Fleet Air Arm is essential to operations.

ROYAL MARINES COMMANDOS

Even thinking about joining the Royal Marines makes you different. It sets you apart.

To get a step further, you'll need to be truly special. To be able to dig deeper than most, and go further than others can even imagine. Do that and you'll be able to take your place in the world's most elite amphibious fighting force.

There's something all Royal Marines have in common – the state of mind. Where you use it, and how, will depend on the level you join at and the specialisations you choose.

ROYAL MARINES BAND SERVICE

First and foremost, you'll be a Royal Marine, which means doing more than just playing music. You'll have a vital role to play in our most challenging operations, as you provide operational and logistical support for 3 Commando Brigades.

You'll be front and centre at some of our most important ceremonial occasions, and parades. In your distinctive white helmet and blue uniform, you'll be representing the Royal Marines at all times, all over the world.

ROYAL NAVAL RESERVE

For most people, the demands of a job and family life are challenging enough. However, some have ambitions that go beyond the everyday. You may be one of them. If so, you can learn new skills and contribute to vital operations in the Royal Naval Reserve (RNR).

The Royal Naval Reserve is made up of around 3000 men and women from all backgrounds and walks of life. They form part of the Royal Navy's 'total strength'. Around 25% of them have previously served with the Naval Service, but most have no previous military experience.

ROYAL MARINES RESERVE

Looking for the ultimate challenge? The Royal Marines Reserve is the elite amphibious element of our Maritime Reserves and makes up just 1% of our nation's overall tri-service reservists.

You'll undertake the same Royal Marine assessment taken by everyone who wears the green beret and work alongside your regular counterparts wherever you're needed most. From conflict zones to the scene of a natural disaster, you'll need to be able to seamlessly transition from civilian to elite soldier.

ROYAL FLEET AUXILIARY

Supplying Royal Navy ships and shore units is a massive operation, that involves thousands of people and millions of items, 365 days a year.

From ammunition to breakfast cereal, it all has to be in the right place, at the right time. Join the RFA and you'll be part of the team that gets it there.
